THE THIRD SESSION was called to order by Mr. Lane at 9 A.M. on Saturday, 2 August; Papers 13-20 were read and discussed. During the session, Mr. Hoenigswald presented the following resolutions on behalf of the Committee on Resolutions (H. M. Hoenigswald, chairman; H. A. Gleason, Mary R. Haas). The resolutions were unanimously adopted.

We wish to express our gratitude to Indiana University for extending its facilities to our Summer Meeting. In particular, our thanks go to Vice-President Ashton, whose warm words of welcome we appreciate profoundly; and to C. F. Voegelin, T. A. Sebeok, and others for attending most ably to the details of the meeting and to the needs of those in attendance.

We have learned with regret of the illness of our Vice-President, Martin Joos, which has prevented him from being here. We record our best wishes for his speedy recovery.

Within a few days, death has claimed two signers of the founding call and former presidents: Roland G. Kent and Edgar H. Sturtevant. We are deeply saddened by the loss of these two eminent men, to whom the Society will always be immeasurably indebted.

THE FIRST SESSION was called to order by the President, Mr. Lane, at 9 A.M. on Saturday, 28 December; about 120 persons were present. Papers 1-8 were read and discussed. The session was adjourned at 12:10 P.M.

THE SECOND SESSION was called to order by Mr. Lane at 2 P.M.; again about 120 persons were present. Papers 9-13 were read and discussed. The session was adjourned at 4 P.M. The members of the Society and their guests were thereupon entertained at an informal reception given by Harvard University in the William Hayes Fogg Art Museum.

THE ANNUAL INFORMAL BANQUET for members and their guests was held at 8 P.M., with 68 persons in attendance. After the banquet, Mr. Lane read the Presidential Address: The Time Has Come, The Walrus Said.

THE THIRD SESSION was called to order by Mr. Lane at 9 A.M. on Sunday, 29 December; about 60 persons were present. Papers 14-17 were read and discussed. The session was adjourned at 11 A.M.

THE BUSINESS MEETING (FOURTH SESSION) was thereupon called to order. The minutes of the preceding meeting were called for. The Secretary reported that the minutes of the Twenty-Sixth Annual Meeting, held in New York on 29-30 December 1951, had already been printed in Bulletin No. 25 and had been distributed to the members of the Society; and that the minutes of the Fourteenth Summer Meeting, held in Bloomington on 1-2 August 1952, would appear shortly in Bulletin No. 26. It was voted that the reading of these minutes be dispensed with, and that they be accepted.

The Secretary presented the following report, which was ordered received and filed:

The personal membership, excluding Honorary Memberships, was last reported to the Society as 839. On 15 December 1952 the net membership was 914 after all losses, representing a gain of 75. There were 107 new members, and 8 reinstatements. Twenty-one were dropped for non-payment of dues (2 of these were in China and so could not be reached), and 18 resigned: E. K. Allen, Bishop, Buchanan, T. F. Dunn, Eckel, Gray, Hatzfeld, Hendrickson, Holmer, H. R. Keller, McKibben, Mowry, Myer, Orlov, Owl, Reischer, Schroeder, and Stewart.

We regretfully record the death of four members: Ernest Lilien on 16 June, Roland G. Kent on 27 June, Edgar H. Sturtevant on 1 July, and Richard Jente on 22 August.

The Society started the year with 24 Honorary Members. During the year we lost four by death: Sten Konow (notice received on 25 February 1952, though his death occurred in 1948), Hanns Oertel on 2 February, Jakob Jud on 15 June, and Bedrich Hrozný on 19 December.

Domestic Library subscriptions were 188, of which 13 were new. This represents a net gain of 8 over the last reported figure.

Foreign Library subscriptions were 208, of which 60 were new; but there were 52 failures to renew. This represents a net gain of 13. Actually this gain is considerable, since it more than compensates for the loss of 25 temporary subscriptions for Amerika Haus, included in the 52 losses above.

The total net gain in paid subscriptions, personal and library, is thus 93.

As Treasurer, Mr. Hill presented the following report:

AUDITOR'S REPORT:

We have examined the Schedule of Assets and Liabilities and the Profit and Loss Statement submitted by the Treasurer of the Linguistic Society of America for the period 15 December 1951 to 15 December 1952, and consider, from a check of the entries in the Ledger, that the Schedule and the Statement are correct.

(Signed) GEORGE P. FAUST
ROBERT P. STOCKWELL

29 December 1952

It was voted to adopt the Treasurer's report and order it filed.

On behalf of the Executive Committee, Mr. Hill presented the following report:

During the year 1952, the Executive Committee took the following action by correspondence:

1. Decided to join a group of learned societies in acting as sponsors for a memorial celebration held at the Pan-American Union in honor of the Chilean scholar and linguist, José Toribio Medina.

2. Wrote to the American Council of Learned Societies nominating Mortimer Graves as Director.

3. Chose the papers for the Twenty-Seventh Annual Meeting.

The Executive Committee held a special meeting in the Indiana Union on the evening before the Summer Meeting of the Society. Present were G. S. Lane, presiding; A. A. Hill, and C. T. Hodge; the other members of the Committee (M. Joos, Y. Malkiel, J. M. Cowan, and W. F. Leopold) were represented by proxies (B. Bloch, W. F. Twaddell, Y. R. Chao, and H. V. Velten respectively). Present by constitutional provision but without vote were E. Adelaide Hahn and J. Whatmough.

The Committee took the following actions:

1. Elected new members, numbers 1861-1921.

2. Elected O. Springer liaison officer with the Modern Language Association, a position felt to be of increased importance because of the large grant recently made to the Modern Language Association for the purpose of furthering the study of languages.

3. Rejected a proposal that the Society again buy an over-run of the Journal of the American Acoustical Society in order to distribute to members of the Linguistic Society the papers of the 1952 Communications Conference. It was voted instead that the membership be circularized and given an opportunity to buy the appropriate number of the Journal of the American Acoustical Society at a reduced rate.

4. Accepted the resignation of G. S. Lane from the Committee on the Place of the Linguistic Institute, and elected H. M. Hoenigswald to serve for three years.

5. Debated at length an invitation to the Linguistic Institute for 1954 from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, read the several communications from members of the Committee on the Place of the Linguistic Institute, and decided to refuse the invitation, in the form in which it was presented, for the following reasons: (a) MIT has no home staff in linguistics; (b) MIT's proposal to give six courses in linguistics, beyond its regular offerings in communications, is insufficient; (c) the proposal that post-doctoral students be admitted free of tuition only upon assuming regular teaching duties is unsatisfactory. The Secretary was instructed to write Mr. Locke of this decision, and the reasons for it, and to invite Mr. Locke, if he should wish to carry the matter further, to communicate again with the Committee on the Place of the Linguistic Institute.

6. Expressed the wish that the Committee on Specifications for Future Institutes carry on its work in the light of the decision on the invitation from MIT.

The Executive Committee held its regular meeting on the afternoon of 27 December in the Hotel Commander. Present were G. S. Lane, presiding; A. A. Hill, C. T. Hodge, M. Joos, and Y. Malkiel. The other members of the Committee (J. M. Cowan and W. F. Leopold) were represented by proxies (W. F. Twaddell and H. M. Hoenigswald respectively). Present by constitutional provision but without vote were E. Adelaide Hahn, H. Kurath, N. A. McQuown, R. L. Ward, and J. Whatmough. B. Bloch was present by invitation.

The Committee took the following actions:

1. Read and accepted the minutes of its last meeting, and of its actions by correspondence.

2. Discussed and accepted the reports of the Secretary and the Treasurer.

3. Elected new members, numbers 1922-67.

4. Heard the report of the Committee on Honorary Members, presented by Mr. Malkiel. It was voted to present the following nominations to the Society with the Executive Committee's approval: A. Sommerfelt, L. Hjelmalev, K. Jaberg.

5. Discussed the present state of the Collitz bequest. As a result of this discussion, the Committee voted to approve the action of the Committee for the Collitz Bequest in ordering the officers of the Society to sign the release presented by Mr. Phelps.

6. Discussed the increase in rates proposed by the Waverly Press. The Committee expressed a strong informal opinion that the Society should continue with Waverly in spite of the proposed considerable increase in printing costs.

7. Elected the following as the Administrative Committee for the Linguistic Institute for 1953: C. F. Voegelin, Director; A. A. Hill, Associate Director; T. A. Sebeok, Assistant Director; F. W. Householder, H. V. Velten, H. Whitehall. M. B. Emeneau was elected Collitz Professor for 1953. The Committee as usual voted to delegate authority for arranging the Summer Meeting to the Administrative Committee as above constituted.

8. Discussed the present possibilities for the Linguistic Institute for 1954 and 1955, and received reports that the Universities of Chicago and Michigan have both made firm bids for these two years.

9. Elected J. Whatmough a member of the Committee on Honorary Members to serve for three years. H. L. Smith was appointed as delegate of the Society to the forthcoming meeting in Washington called by the Commissioner of Education on the teaching of languages in public schools. Mr. Lane reappointed H. Hoijer chairman of the Standing Committee on Research. Other committees were continued without modification.

10. Decided that the 1953 Annual Meeting would be held in New York, and that the meeting for 1954 would be held in Ann Arbor if that location should prove practicable upon investigation, otherwise in Chicago.

11. Suggested that the Secretary use his discretion to invite a few distinguished scholars to contribute papers to one session of the Annual Meeting. Such papers should be between thirty and forty minutes long, and should be broad in scope. This suggestion is to be regarded as experimental rather than as establishing a precedent.

12. Suggested that the Secretary add to the circular which he sends to members to invite papers, a query whether the paper is to be presented elsewhere as well as at the meeting of the Linguistic Society. It is not the purpose of the Executive Committee to forbid or even to discourage this practice, but rather to gain information which may in borderline cases be useful in reaching decisions.

13. Voted to present to the Society, with the Executive Committee's approval, the following as candidates for exemption from the further payment of dues: A. G. Kennedy and C. A. Williams, Foundation Members; J. L. Boysen, member since 1926.

14. Approved a suggestion by T. A. Sebeok that the possibility of the Linguistic Society's joining the Social Science Research Council be investigated.

15. Informally agreed that the McCarran Act made it inadvisable to invite the Eighth International Congress of Linguists to meet in this country.

16. Discussed and rejected the suggestion of G. M. Cowan that bulk subscriptions to LANGUAGE be established at a reduced rate when several copies can be mailed together to a single address. The reason for this rejection is that if this privilege were granted to a few groups, many groups would demand it, even though such bulk mailings would constitute no saving to the Society.

During the year 1952, Mr. Lane appointed the following delegates to congresses and ceremonies: E. Adelaide Hahn and T. O. Mabbott to the UNESCO Conference on Education held at Hunter College, 27-31 January 1952; G. M. Messing to the Congrès International des Sciences Anthropologiques et Ethnologiques, held in Vienna 1-8 September 1952; B. Bloch, H. Kurath, and J. Whatmough to the Seventh International Congress of Linguists, held in London 1-6 September 1952; M. H. Watkins to the Medina Centennial Celebration, held in Washington 6-8 November 1952.

It was voted that this report be received and filed.

Mr. Bloch, Editor and Chairman of the Society's Committee on Publications, presented the following report, which was ordered received and filed:

During the year 1952 the Society issued the following publications:
LANGUAGE, Volume 28; 534 pages.

Bulletin No. 25: Proceedings 1951, Constitution, List of Members 1951; 68 pages.

Language dissertation No. 47: Samuel E. Martin, Morphophonemics of standard colloquial Japanese; 115 pages.

Language dissertation No. 48: Cornelius Joseph Crowley, Persisting Latinisms in El poema de Mio Cid and other selected Old Spanish literary works; 15 pages.

Language dissertation No. 49: George J. Siefert jr., Meter and case in the Latin elegiac pentameter; 126 pages.

Joint publication with the University of Texas Press: Winfred P. Lehmann, Proto-Indo-European phonology; xv, 129 pages.

Corrected re-issue (photographic) of a special publication in the William Dwight Whitney linguistic series: Edgar H. Sturtevant and George Bechtel, A Hittite chrestomathy (1935); 230 pages.

An editor is often asked: If I send you an article, how long will I have to wait before it comes out? The following table answers that question for LANGUAGE in terms of past experience. For each volume since 1940 it shows the number of articles printed, and the lapse of time, in months, between their receipt and their publication. The interval is measured from the arrival of the MS in its final form (usually its only form, but sometimes the last of several revisions) to the nominal date of the issue in which it appears. The terms average, median, and mode have their usual statistical meanings; the range is the difference between the shortest and the longest interval for a given volume (the extremes shown in parentheses). It is to be assumed that no article has to wait more than a year unless it presents special difficulties of editing or other special problems to account for the delay.

The Secretary presented the following report for Mr. Voegelin, Director of the Linguistic Institute for 1952 at Indiana University:

Indiana University was co-sponsor with the Linguistic Society of America of the 1952 session of the Linguistic Institute, held at Bloomington, Indiana, 18 June to 15 August 1952.

The faculty of the Institute consisted of Yuen Ren Chao, University of California at Berkeley; Zellig S. Harris, University of Pennsylvania; Archibald A. Hill, University of Virginia (Associate Director); Louis Hjelmslev, University of Copenhagen; Charles F. Hockett, Cornell University; Valentin Kiparsky, University of Helsinki; George S. Lane, University of North Carolina; Henry L. Smith Jr., Department of State; W. Freeman Twaddell, Brown University (Collitz Professor); and the following members of the staff of Indiana University: H. W. Hoge, Fred W. Householder Jr., M. E. Porter, Thomas A.

Sebeok (Assistant Director), S. Y. Teng, A. P. Ushenko, Harry V. Velten, Charles F. Voegelin (Director), and Harold Whitehall. The Administrative Committee consisted of George Herzog, Householder, Velten, Whitehall, and the three Directors of the Linguistic Institute.

Thirty courses were offered in eight different fields or areas of special interest to linguists; these were attended by 157 students, including twenty Ph.D.s. We were especially pleased to welcome Eli Fischer-Jørgensen of the University of Copenhagen for a month's visit. Four Forum lectures were given by the following members of the faculty: Hill and Hockett (jointly), Chao, Hjelmslev, and Twaddell.

In lieu of the stimulation usually provided by the lecture programs open to the public which have been a feature of past Institutes, the 1952 Institute offered a fortnight's Conference of Anthropologists and Linguists, 21-31 July. Nineteen scholars participated by invitation: Yehoshua Bar-Hillel, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; George C. Barker, University of California at Los Angeles; Joseph Casagrande, Social Science Research Council; Regina Flannery, Catholic University of America; David French, Reed College; Mary R. Haas, University of California at Berkeley; Melville Jacobs, University of Washington; Roman Jakobson, Harvard University; Claude Lévi-Strauss, Sorbonne; John Lotz, Columbia University; Floyd G. Lounsbury, Yale University; Norman A. McQuown, University of Chicago; David L. Olmsted, Yale University; Charles E. Osgood, University of Illinois; Verne Ray, Human Relations Area Files; D. B. Shimkin, Harvard University; Alf Sommerfelt, University of Oslo; Rulon S. Wells, Yale University; Gene Weltfish, Columbia University. In addition to these, the entire staff of the Linguistic Institute, the Indiana University anthropologists and linguists, and many of their students, as well as many scholars from other institutions, played an active part. The results of this Conference will appear shortly as a separate monograph.¹

The Linguistic Institute and Indiana University are indebted to the following institutions for financial aid: the Linguistic Society of America (for the Collitz Professorship), the American Council of Learned Societies (for the course in Applied Linguistics and for fellowships), the American Philosophical Society (for funds to pay the Algonquian informants), the Rockefeller Foundation (for support of East European Studies and for special funds), and the Wenner-Gren Foundation (for the Conference of Anthropologists and Linguists).

The Secretary presented the following report for J. M. Cowan, the Society's delegate to the American Council of Learned Societies:

The American Council of Learned Societies met at Rye, N. Y., on 23-24 January 1952. In both the Conference of Secretaries and the main meeting which followed, the matter of most importance was the future of the Council, which is now in serious danger, and which the constituent societies should therefore do all in their power to support. The following discussion is based upon a memorandum presented to the Council by W. R. Parker, Secretary of the Modern Language Association.

Many of the scholarly projects which the ACLS plans and promotes have recently fallen somewhat outside the central area of the established disciplines represented by the constituent societies, so that the Council tends to appear as if it were itself a sort of super-society. One reason for such an appearance is the current interest of the foundations upon which the Council is wholly dependent, and which are now frankly uninterested in the accepted forms of investigation in the humanities; but a still more important reason is that the societies themselves have remained isolationist, and have not been fully aware either of their sister organizations or of the Council. Yet if the Council did not exist, it would be necessary to invent it. The disunity of the humanities, at the same time that there is a steadily increasing need for more and newer humane studies, and above all the complexity of organization in modern research activities, make the ACLS more valuable than ever before.

It is suggested that the LSA can strengthen the position of the ACLS in at least three ways:

1. The LSA can see to it that the channels of information between the two organizations are fully open, so that the Council is accurately posted on developments within the Society, and the Society is fully informed of the ways in which the ACLS supports linguistic research and publication, and makes possible cooperation with practitioners of allied disciplines.

2. The LSA can continue and strengthen its interest in inter-disciplinary research projects, and can suggest worthwhile projects of this sort to the Council.

3. Above all, the LSA can present a united front with the Council and with its sister societies by continuing to make knowledge of research projects and their results available to the general public, since only in this way will the importance of scientific activity in the humanities be adequately defended in an age which has come to concentrate on the more utilitarian aspects of natural science.

A digest of the report of the ACLS Committee on the Language Program is here appended:

The Council, together with the Department of State, has been for some time engaged in a program to prepare materials for teaching English to speakers of other languages. To find personnel for this work, the Committee made a roster of all graduate students of linguistics, a roster which will be useful in many ways—for instance, by revealing the alarming lack of adequately trained young linguists. A further step was the organization, with the help of the University of Michigan, of a seminar in Applied Linguistics, held during the summer of 1951. The ACLS further supplied a total of 51 fellowships for summer study in 1951, not only for the program at Michigan, but for the Linguistic Institute as well. From among these students, three were later selected to work in the program of preparing teaching materials: S. B. Chatman for Persian, G. F. Schmader for Burmese, and G. E. Williams for Indonesian. The project as a whole centered at Cornell under the direction of C. F. Hockett and W. E. Welmers. Also at Cornell, W. Gage and M. Jackson have the responsibility for Vietnamese. N. A. McQuown and R. B. Lees are preparing a Turkish course at Chicago, and F. Lukoff is working on Korean in New York. W. S. Cornyn and I. Dyen of Yale are supervising work on Burmese and Indonesian respectively. The preparation of the volume El inglés hablado, which was the Council's own project and which has served as a pilot operation, was substantially completed at Cornell, under the direction of F. B. Agard, and a contract for publication was negotiated with Henry Holt & Company.²

Mr. Twaddell presented the following slate on behalf of the Nominating Committee (Y. R. Chao, F. Edgerton, W. F. Twaddell, chairman):

President: Bernard Bloch, Yale University

Vice-President: J. Alexander Kerns, New York University

Secretary and Treasurer: Archibald A. Hill, University of Virginia

Executive Committee 1953-54: Joseph H. Greenberg, Columbia University, and William G. Moulton, Cornell University

Editor: Bernard Bloch, Yale University

Committee on Publications 1953-55: Martin Joos, University of Wisconsin

Nominating Committee 1953-55: Hans Kurath, University of Michigan

² [A statement of the aims of this committee will be found in the Notes of the current number of LANGUAGE.]

The Committee, in nominating the same member for President and Editor, is following a precedent approved by the Society when, for 1932, it elected George M. Bolling to both offices.

The Secretary reported that all nominees of the Nominating Committee had signified their willingness to serve if elected, and that no other nominations had been received by mail ballot. The President called for nominations from the floor, but there were none. On unanimous vote the Secretary was instructed to cast one ballot for all nominees of the Nominating Committee, who were accordingly declared elected.

After the reading of reports, the Society proceeded to questions requiring decisions by vote, and took the following actions:

1. The Society heard the report of Mr. Malkiel on behalf of the Committee on Honorary Memberships, together with the recommendations of the Executive Committee thereon. The following scholars were thereupon elected Honorary Members: L. Hjelmslev, K. Jaberg, and A. Sommerfelt.

2. The Society voted to exempt the following members from further payment of dues, in accord with the recommendations of the Executive Committee: J. L. Boysen, A. G. Kennedy, and C. A. Williams.

3. Mr. McDavid took the floor to compliment the Society's incoming President, Mr. Bloch, on his first thirteen years of service as Editor of LANGUAGE.

4. The Society discussed an amendment to the Constitution proposed by H. E. Collins, E. Cross, R. A. Fowkes, and M. Swadesh, concerning automatic exemption from dues after a certain length of membership. After discussion by Miss Hahn and Messrs. Cross, Bloch, Stockwell, and Joos, the amendment was defeated by a vote of 30 to 6.

5. The Society discussed a second amendment, proposed by C. T. Hodge, H. L. Smith Jr., and G. L. Trager. Mr. Hodge moved to emend the wording of the amendment as circulated to the membership of the Society; the motion was carried. After further discussion, the amendment was approved by a vote of 38 to 1. The provisions of the amendment are as follows:

- (a) In Article II, Section 1, read: 'There shall be seven classes of members'; after the word 'benefactors' insert: 'associate members'.

- (b) After Section 9 of this Article, insert the following as Section 10, and renumber the succeeding Sections (now 10-13) as 11-14:

- '10. Associate membership shall be open only to the spouse of a member. An associate member shall pay annual dues amounting to one-half the dues of regular members, and shall have all the privileges of membership except that he shall receive no publications in his own name. The single set of publications for spouses who are member and associate member shall be addressed jointly, and two copies of all ballots and other materials requiring individual action shall always be sent to such a joint address.'

- (c) In Section 12 of this Article as renumbered, line 1, between the words 'All members' and 'receive gratis', insert: 'except associate members'.

6. Mr. Beym raised the question of an annual volume of linguistic abstracts.

Mr. Bloch replied that the possibility had been thoroughly investigated by the ACLS Committee on the Language Program, and that at present such publication was not practicable.

The President appointed a Committee on Resolutions consisting of W. G. Moulton, E. Pulgram, and R. S. Wells, chairman. The business meeting was adjourned at noon.

THE FIFTH SESSION was called to order by Mr. Lane at 2 P.M.; about 100 persons were present. Papers 18-24 were read and discussed.

THE SIXTH SESSION was called to order by Mr. Lane at 8 P.M.; about 60 persons were present. Papers 25-28 were read and discussed. Seven papers were presented by title.

At the end of the session Mr. Wells presented the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

We are grateful to Harvard University, our host during our Twenty-Seventh Annual Meeting, and to its Secretary, Mr. David M. Little. The University's courtesy in making a number of special arrangements and exhibits is warmly appreciated, and the reception generously held by the University, at which Mr. and Mrs. Whatmough made us welcome, was a particular pleasure. Realizing the many burdens devolving upon the Committee on Arrangements, we extend our thanks to the members of this Committee for their distinguished performance.

The meeting was adjourned at 10 P.M.
